

Keynote of "Beauty" Predominates in High School Yearbook, Just Off Press

Dedicated to beauty, the beauty of friendships and pleasant experiences of school days, the Harding High School yearbook, "Quiver Annual," just published, was distributed yesterday.

In carrying out the keynote of beauty, the book resembles an old-fashioned volume, in black and red, the high school colors. Claps, of the variety used on old and valued volumes, are etched in the perforated leather of the exterior of the book. The words "Quiver" and "1928" are printed in red.

The verse of dedication from John Keats, is:

"A thing of beauty is a joy forever."

It's loveliness increases; it will never Pass into nothingness; but still will keep A bower quiet for us, and a sleep Full of sweet dreams and a beauty and a quiet breathing."

The words are: "We dedicate this Harding High School Quiver Annual of 1928 to beauty, cultivated by simplicity of purpose; to beauty perfected by noble thoughts; to beauty perfected by worthy ideals and to beauty, as beauty with happy memories. May the future of the year be generously rich and red."

MARION DELEGATION GOING TO COLUMBUS

Will Attend Dedication of New Farm Bureau Buildings June 12

A large delegation will represent Marion County at the dedication of the new Farm Bureau building in Columbus, according to Roland L. Leeper, service manager of the Marion County Farm Bureau. The dedication is planned for June 12. The officers of the organization are being moved into the new building today. Leeper stated that an attempt is being made to get all of the farmers and county leaders in the state farm bureau movement to Columbus for the building opening ceremonies, says the word from state headquarters. The first committee named to form the organization was appointed in 1918. A year later, on Jan. 28, 1919, delegates from county farm bureaus elected the first directors of the Ohio Farm Bureau Federation.

Of the nine directors chosen at that time, eight are living and will be given honor places at the dedication ceremony. These men are: L. J. Fisher, now manager of the National Grange; George L. Leeper, of Dover Center, formerly known to thousands of Ohio farmers as "father of the Ohio farm bureau"; Harry G. Beale of Columbus, for several years treasurer of the organization; H. C. Rogers of Champaign county, the first secretary; O. E. Bradford, former president of both the Ohio and American Farm Bureaus; H. P. Miller of Sandusky, Ohio's first county agricultural agent; Dewey Head of Columbus, and H. E. Shaver of Columbus, the other member of the original directorate, is deceased.

Speaking program at dedication will be held at 11 a. m. to be followed by luncheon at the new building.

PURDUE SENIOR IS BIG TEN GOLF CHAMP

Completes Columbus Course in 374 Strokes Minnesota Man Second

Columbus, May 26.—Johnnie Lehman, senior of Purdue University, today was being crowned as the individual winner of the western conference golf championship by completing his brilliant performance in the last 18 holes of the match played here late yesterday afternoon.

Lehman took 314 strokes to round the 72 holes. Bobby Jones did the same course in 293 to win the National title in 1929. Par is 288.

Lehman followed Lehman with 315. Al Stewart, Ohio State golfer, took third with a score of 310.

Each of the three leaders took four strokes above par, 26, on their last 18 holes. Lehman obtained a one stroke lead in the early morning play and maintained it through the match.

Lehman finished the last nine holes in par, one of the few par scores registered in the two days of play.

The hard playing Minnesota, Bob Stewart, was one stroke in the lead with but nine holes to play. He played the last holes in a 58, losing the match to Lehman. Stewart won the meet last year.

Adrian Connor of Michigan and Dick Pierce of Northwestern finished in a tie for fourth place with scores of 320 each.

Victoria, May 26.—Ralph Hogan, head coach and athletic director of Victoria High School, the school that was recently barred from the Ohio School Athletic Association, has resigned to take up a coaching berth at Toledo Libby High, according to reports today.

Hogan resigned Monday night at a meeting of the Board of Education but the news was not disclosed until today. The coach's resignation is effective at the end of the present school term.

LAST NIGHT'S FIGHTS

At New York: George Courtney, Oklahoma middleweight, outpointed Jack McVey, New York, 10-10.

At Boston: Big Boy Peterson, New Orleans, won decision over Ernie Schaff, Boston, 10-9.

OH, THAT BABE!

Buster Ahead of Last Year, But Far Behind Ruth

New York, May 26.—Buster Lou Gehrig, the crown prince of swat, is ahead of his last year's home run record today but hasn't a chance of overtaking the king, Babe Ruth. While Gehrig was collecting his eighth homer against the Athletics yesterday, the babe doubled his home run total by jamming two balls across the street from Sube Park. Ruth is now hitting 'em at the astounding rate of 68 for the season and is seven games ahead of his all-time record of 1927, when his season's total was 60.

The Bambino has hit for the circuit three times in the last two days.

OVER FENCE, BOYS; MAJORS SOCK HARD

Yanks Make Five Homers, Ruth Getting Two and Gehrig One

New York, May 26.—Willie Keeler's famous slogan—"Hit 'em where they ain't"—is panned these days. The New York Yankees have a better one—"Hit 'em over the lot!"

Five home runs by the Yanks—two by Ruth, two by Dugan and one by Gehrig—beat the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday, 4 to 2 and 9 to 2, and ruined the Mackmen's only opportunity to gain ground on the leaders in the present series.

The A's, now trailing by 5½ games, must take the remaining two games to get an even break on the series.

Ruth now has 16 homers to Gehrig's eight. It was a banner day for the home run hitters, the day's total being 33. Incidentally, 120 have been made in each league.

New in Row
Phil Todd of the Boston Red Sox got his fourth homer in as many days as the Sox whitewashed the Senators, 5 to 0, and moved back into the first division. Huffing was the winning pitcher.

Homers by Bressler and Hendrick of the Brooklyn Robins ruined Rogers Hornsby's debut as manager of the Braves, who lost by a score of 4 to 1. Lefty Clark, the blushing bridegroom, turned in his sixth victory.

Homers by Ed Houch and Master Melvin Ott, each with a nudge on base, enabled the Giants to smash a 4-0 verdict over the Phillies. Vic Aldridge hurled his first triumph as a New Yorker.

Kelly Helps Clergy
George Kelly's home run counted Cincinnati's 2-0 victory over the Cardinals. Red Lucas handed the Cards their first out of kalamine since 1927 and snapped their winning streak of four games.

The Reds are one full game in front of the Cubs, who regained second place from the Cardinals slaughtering the Pirates, 10 to 3, for their first victory on Forbes Field this season. The Cubs had lost four straight.

A home run by Finch Hitter George Burns started Cleveland on the road to an 8-0 win over the St. Louis Browns, who slipped back into the second division.

Detroit and Chicago are staging their own private fight—a battle for sixth place. The Sox eased themselves into the sixth slot yesterday when the veteran Red Epler won a fifty-third win from Holloway. Each hurler yielded only five hits.

HUGHES WINNER OF SCHOOL GOLF TITLE

Toledo Libby and Upper Arlington Tie for Second Place at Columbus

Columbus, May 26.—With the golf championship already decided, athletes of Ohio high schools began the second day of competition of the state high school track, tennis and baseball tournaments at the Ohio Stadium, here this morning.

Outdistancing its nearest team competitors by more than 20 strokes, the Cincinnati Hughes High links squad annexed the golf title with a gross score of 318 for the 18-hole event at the Arlington Country Club grounds.

Two Cincinnati Hughes athletes, E. Collins and J. Hendrix, tied for first place in the low individual medal score. Both shot the 18 holes in 77. Ed Hammond of Dayton Catholic High finished the course in a tie with Theron Green of Upper Arlington with 80 strokes for second low individual scoring.

One lone record toppled in the Friday competition for the state track championship. Sumner of Lanier, Preble County, topped the old record for the Class C high jump by 4½ inches. Sumner cleared the bar at 5 feet, 7½ inches.

COURTNEY SCORES EASY VICTORY OVER MVEY

New York, May 26.—George Courtney, Oklahoma cowboy, today strengthened his claim as a leading contender for Mickey Walker's middleweight crown by his easy victory over Jack McVey, colored "merano" in a 10-round bout here last night.

Courtney had the New Yorker on the verge of a knockout in the fifth round. Phil McGowan, Detroit referee, but to Bobby Burns in the sixth round of the semi-final when he failed the Brooklyn lightweight after Burns had clinched both rounds.

FIRST OUTDOOR CARD TO BE STAGED HERE ON MONDAY, JUNE 4

Jimmy Brown To Fight Frankie Stellmack in 10-Round Main Co

Final arrangements are being completed this week for the opening outdoor boxing show to be staged at Crystal Lake Park on Monday night, June 4.

A 28-round boxing card is rapidly being rounded into shape with Jimmy Brown of Cincinnati and Frankie Stellmack of Cleveland being featured in a 10-round main event. They will fight at 132 pounds.

Rag Snyder will participate in his first semi-final card in Marion meeting Elmer Fricke of Cincinnati in an eight round affair at 142 pounds.

Wildcat Malone of Marion is another local boy to make his bow before local fans on the outdoor card. He will go six rounds with Joe Kirk of Cleveland. His fights at 135 pounds.

A four round curtain raiser is yet to be scheduled. When this match is arranged the card will be completed. It promises to be the most attractive staged in Marion so far this year.

The two Cleveland fighters are from the stable of Danny Dunn, manager of Johnny Risko. Risko is considered as one of the leading contenders for Gene Tunney's heavyweight crown.

Working out at the present time, boxing shows will be held every two weeks at Crystal Lake. A ring will be erected in the middle of the large pavilion. About 20 rows of chairs will be arranged around the ring for the reserved section with bleachers surrounding those. Through this arrangement it will be possible to seat more than 6,000 fans.

The final outdoor fight to be staged in September will bring together some of the big guns of boxing.

THREE MARKS DOWN AS FINALS START

Stanford Favored To Take Team Title Home from Cambridge Meet

Cambridge, Mass., May 26.—Three championship records were already cut down and harvested as the field of athletes went into the final rounds of the intercollegiate track and field title games this afternoon.

Among the accepted probabilities was the defeat of the world's pole vault mark by Lee Barnes, Southern California, or Salim Carr, Yale, or both. The latter held the outdoor and indoor records at 14 feet and 14 feet, one inch, respectively, until a few weeks ago when Barnes bettered both by a fraction of an inch in a coast meet.

Stanford, with Eric Krenz and his companions, ready for another frolic in the field events, was believed to have the team title ready for shipment. E. O. R. Palo Alto, California.

Another Stanford bid, Harlow Roth, only a half inch behind Krenz, held to cut down the entrants, by placing a total of 21 men—somebody in every event. The Illinois managed to get 16 past the barrier, with Ohio a good third. The Hawkeyes had 15 qualifiers.

Michigan, Chicago and Wisconsin, which with Illinois are the only Big Ten schools ever to win the conference outdoor championship in 28 years of competition, are just about out of the running, if yesterday's trials count for anything.

Evansville, Ill., May 26.—With indications pointing to a battle between Iowa and Illinois for team honors, Big Ten athletes were to stage their annual assault on the record book this afternoon when the conference track and field championship meet is run off at Dyche Stadium, Northwestern University.

The Hawkeyes outdistanced the field yesterday in the 11 qualifying trials, held to cut down the entrants, by placing a total of 21 men—somebody in every event. The Illinois managed to get 16 past the barrier, with Ohio a good third. The Hawkeyes had 15 qualifiers.

MONEY MARKET STOPS DECLINE

Downward Price Movement Checked as Bad Break Threatens

Markets at a Glance
New York stock and bond exchange closed. Cotton, grain, sugar, rubber, foreign exchange, etc.

BY W. S. COBBINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, May 26.—An easier trend in the money market, as expressed in the slightly lower outside rates for call money and a $16,000,000,000 decrease in brokers' loans, arrested a rapidly developing downward movement in stock prices this week and checked what appeared to be a bad break in the market favorites.

Aggressive efforts of the bullish leaders in Wall Street to prevent a decline in prices at this time were reflected in the violent upward bidding of the motor, airplane, radio and specialty stocks of all kinds, after a severe drop in the fore part of the week. Traders and commission houses were sorely satisfied with the four-hour day, and the governors of the exchange promptly rescinded their order of a week previous, restoring the 3 o'clock closing beginning Monday.

Support Lacking
Lacking any semblance of organized support, and without the usual volume of buying demand from the western sections of the country, the market drifted to a lower level of values in the first two sessions of the week. Heavy offerings of the motor stocks and specialties helped along the bearish efforts for lower prices and losses in the airplane and other fast-moving shares extended from five to 15 points. But the market's technical position was improved in the process and when the bulls asserted themselves in full force in the late session, the bears scattered like chaff and prices jumped riotously.

Industrial reports of the week were generally favorable. Steel production is well maintained, copper prices have reached a new peak for the year at 15 1/2 cents a pound, automobile manufacturing is pushed to the limit and April building contracts showed the largest monthly total in history.

Oil Production Drops
On the eve of the largest and most important gasoline consuming season of the year, crude oil production has shown a distinctly declining tendency, while prices for crude and refined oil have gradually stiffened. If this process continues it will enable the big oil companies to work out of the most embarrassing situation they have faced in a decade, in which huge losses in net earnings rose from the uncontrolled surpluses of crude oil from newly discovered fields.

Cotton
New York, May 26.—Business was displayed by the local cotton market at the opening today. Opening quotations ranged from three points lower to five points higher, July sold at 20.65, up 1/2; October 20.05, down 1/2; December 20.55, down 1/2; January 20.45, down 1/2; and March 20.45, down 1/2.

CLEARINGS LOWER
Bank clearings which on Thursday showed an increase of approximately $25,000 over the corresponding day of the preceding week, yesterday fell behind that of the preceding Friday by more than $11,000. Clearings for yesterday, it was announced at the Marion County Bank today, were $89,010.42, compared to $100,011.06 last week.

LOCAL STOCK PRICES
Marion Stock Market Co. common stock was quoted on the New York high market yesterday as follows: High, $2.15; low, $2.10; close, $2.15. Sales totaled 200 shares.

On the Columbus exchange, Huber Manufacturing Co. common stock was listed at 150 bid, 160 asked and Huber preferred at 162 bid, 165 asked.

and Girls' Glee Club, Mendelsohn's "March from 'Athalie'" sung by a mixed chorus with the orchestra playing the accompaniment, opened the program. The Girls' Glee Club, with a violin and flute obligato by Miss Anna Von Klotz and Richard Cowan, sang "Indian Love," a slow, typical Indian song, composed by Ross and Zanevnik.

Selections played by the band were especially well received. Members of the band have a uniform of white duck trousers, red sweaters with the black lyre, emblematic of the musical organization, and a black cap.

The band played five numbers. The "Hunting Scene" by Baccossi, the finale of the entertainment, was one of the best executed numbers of the program. Five scenes, from the early morning, when the hunters start on the chase, until evening when the fox is killed, were played with all accompaniments of birds whistling, dogs barking, whips cracking, and the pistol shot when the fox was killed.

Orchestra Number
One especially fine piece of music, "Unfinished Symphony," Franz Schubert, was given by the orchestra, which also played three other solos and accompanied several songs.

The Boys' Glee Club had a particularly important part in the program. "In Jungle Land," Ira B. Wilson, was a number by the club which proved especially popular with the audience.

Accompanists at the pianos were Miss Elma Sage and Robert Knages.

Mr. Temple, the director, to whom praise is accorded for the work of the High School music group, is a graduate of Lake Forest College, Ill., and studied the violin under Ludwig Becker, violin director in the Columbia School of Music, Chicago. Before he came to this city he was assistant supervisor of music in the Dayton schools. He is studying for a degree from the Cincinnati Conservatory of Music, this summer.

Advance advertising and decorations were made by Glenn Duffer, and pianos were furnished by the Dablock Transfer Co. Pearl Sells assisted as stage manager.

Which Will Marion Choose?

Throbbing machinery — busy streets — the roar of traffic — happy people — money in the bank — prosperity.

Dying town — very little business — an automobile here and there — people just living — industrial stagnation.

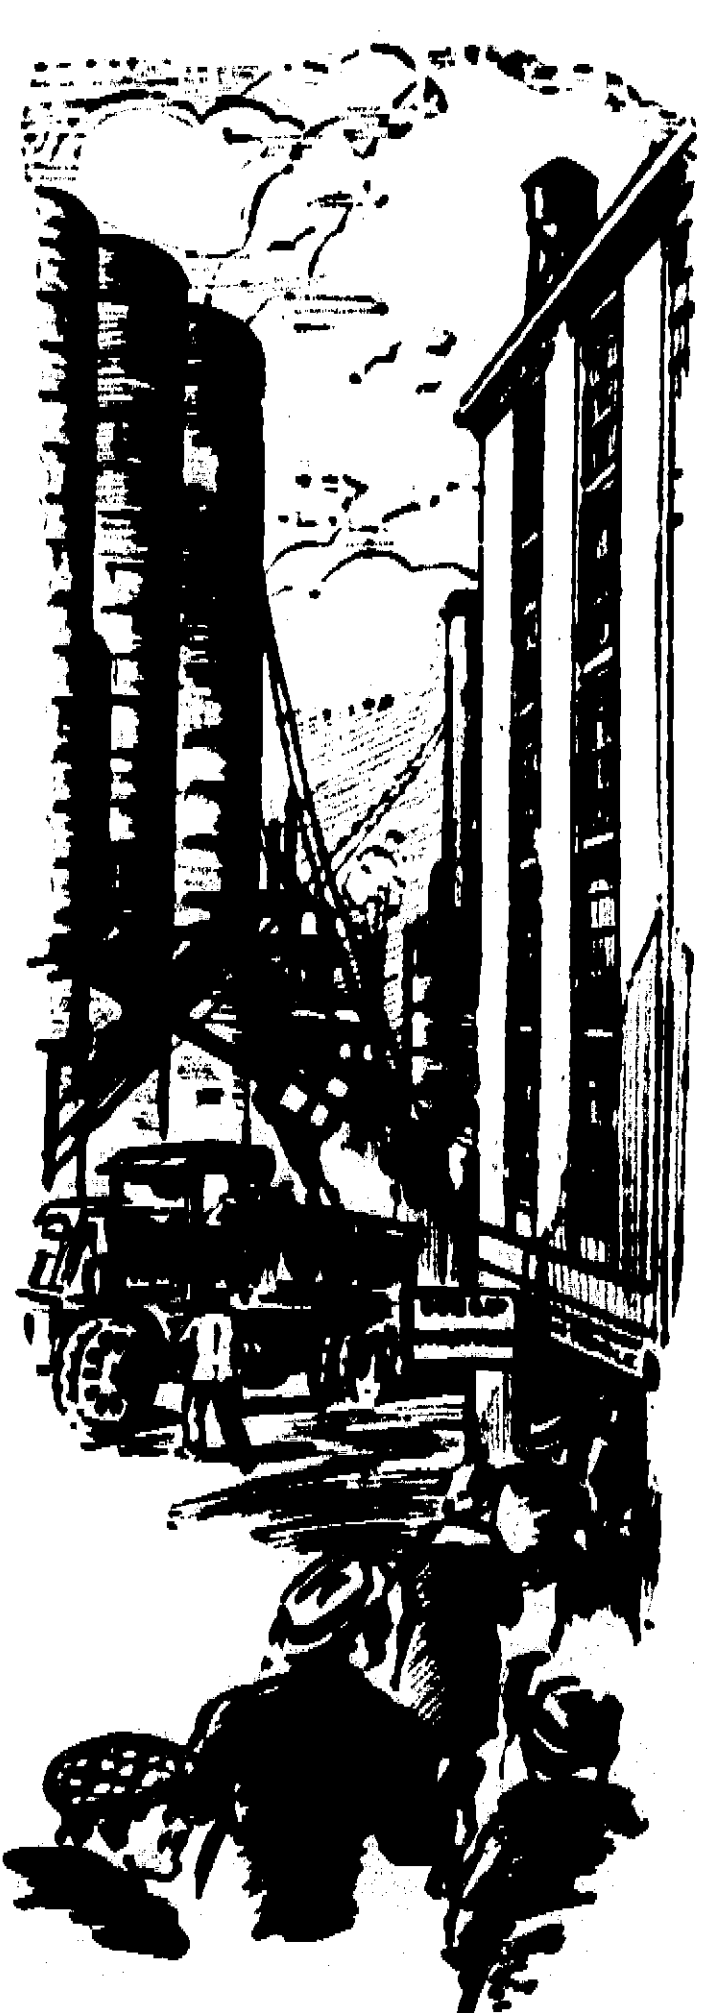

There, in a few words, you have the pictures of two towns. One abuzz with activity — the other dying the death of narrow-mindedness and selfishness.

The future of Marion rests with Marion. Your town can either be one of prosperity or become industrially sterile.

Marion must be able to assure industries of an adequate gas supply. In giving this assurance to business Marion is also assuring its future growth.

Gas is vital to Marion. Every day that Marion puts off the settlement of the gas rate means loss of business, money and prosperity. Your Gas Company is eager to help Marion grow. All it asks is that you recognize the fact that

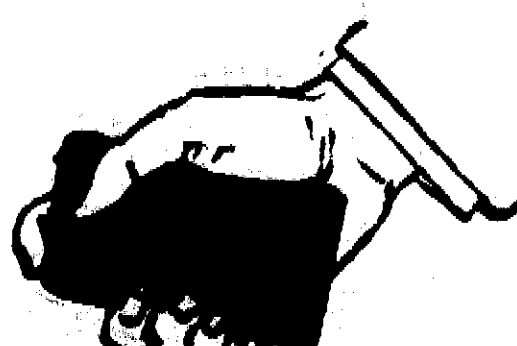

GAS IS WORTH MORE.

"YOU CAN BUY
A BIGGER CAR
BUT NOT A BETTER ONE"

The success of the new Oldsmobile is easy to understand when you know why this new Six was created and how it was perfected.

It was created specifically for those whose preference is for a truly fine automobile. It was developed to standards of quality, style and value that made no compromise with price. It was proved by over a million miles of relentless testing.

In performance, in comfort, in ease of control, in sophisticated beauty—it invites the most exacting comparison with the finest and costliest cars being built today.

Its new high-compression engine—embodying the most advanced features of design—provides true fine-car smoothness, snap and speed. Its insulated chassis and silenced interior create true fine-car environment. Its modish Fisher bodies reveal a new expression of fine-car beauty; while such features as Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers and radiator shutters contribute the final touches of fine-car luxury.

That's why thousands who have seen it—inspected it—driven it critically—have said, "You can buy a bigger car, but not a better one!"

LUMBER & CO.

one of the Republican nominations for U. S. Senator.

Others Mentioned

Friends of Congressman Theodore E. Burton, Cleveland; former Congressman Charles L. Knight, Akron; newspaper publisher Col. Carmel A. Thompson, Cleveland; and Attorney Robert A. Telford, Cincinnati, former speaker of the Ohio House of Representatives, have urged them to weigh in as Republican candidates for U. S. Senator, it was stated.

Among the Democratic candidates, U. S. Senator Cyrus L. Fisher, Cleveland, is slated to file his declaration as a candidate to fill the unexpired term of the late U. S. Senator Frank B. Willis ending on March 4, 1932, while Charles V. Truax, Bucyrus, state director of agriculture, is expected to weigh in as a candidate to succeed Senator Fisher for the full six-year term beginning on March 4, 1932.

Following the death of Senator Willis last March, Governor Donahoe appointed Fisher, who will serve until his successor is elected next November and takes office Dec. 15.

Democratic gubernatorial candidates are scheduled to include Congressman Martin L. Davis, Kent; former Lieut. Gov. Earl D. Bloom, Bowling Green; now state director of commerce, and Herman Witter, Canton, state director of industrial relations. Friends of Adj. Gen. Frank Henderson have been urging him to enter the race for the Democratic nomination for governor.

See Many Coming

In view of the fact that prominent Republicans and Democrats have formally announced their candidacies for various offices, including U. S. Senator and governor, but have not yet weighed in, it is expected that the next three weeks will witness the receipt at the secretary of state's office of quite a number of declarations of candidacy.

Attorney General Edward C. Turner, Columbus, former Lieut. Gov. Charles H. Lewis, Harpster, and Myers Y. Cooper, Cincinnati, are among those Republican gubernatorial candidates expected to file declarations.

U. S. Senator Simon D. Fess, Yellow Springs, Republican, is expected to seek reelection next November. Chief Justice C. T. Marshall of the Ohio Supreme Court recently announced that he will be a candidate for

High School Seniors Drop Dignity For "Stunt Day"

Traditional "stunt day" exercises were conducted by seniors of Harding High School in an assembly there yesterday morning. Each year about a week prior to graduation seniors, minus their erstwhile dignity, entertain the lower classes with a program of "stunts". Each senior is to appear at that time in a costume ill-befitting his newly-acquired station in life.

Yesterday's program included three "stunts" presented by the home room classes of Misses Olla Allmendinger, Lucile Foreman and Helen Jacoby.

Miss Allmendinger's group presented a physical education class demonstration with Robert Elliott acting as teacher. "The last day of school at Hicksville's Corners" was the entertainment given by Miss Foreman's group. Don Hunter and Miss Frances Krause presided as superintendent and teacher of a class on the last day of school.

Mock commencement exercises were given by Miss Jacoby's group. Harold Waddell acted as superintendent. The last will and prophecy was read by Miss Hazel Barkley.

The Divine Archer

A SERMONETTE

By GEORGE WHITLOCK
Pastor, Wesley M. E. Church

HE hath made me a polished shaft, Job. 42:2.

Israel uses the arrow in a figure of speech to represent Israel as a chosen instrument for the religious instruction of the world. The figure seems weak enough to us because we look upon the "Archer" as a boy. It was at that time however as important as an aviator, and the bow as a 10 gun. In fact, Israel chose the bow as the strongest figure in his day—necessary for protection as for conquest. By its might Empires crumbled, and kingdoms rose and fell. It shot Feudalism to pieces in the Hundred Years War and leveled the Mailed Knight to the common man.

Fitness in the first quality guiding the choice of the Divine Archer. Indifferent instruments are not chosen. Paul was not an accident—not a crooked shaft, but the most polished in his day. All choice is according to fitness. The 10 talented men for ten talented work, and the one talented man for the one talented work, but never in reverse order.

Perfection also is demanded in choice of instruments. It is quite the fashion to think that God is indifferent to quality. An ex-subsistence evangelist, in advertisement as a wonder.

All work of Divine Grace is wonderful and we should be thankful for such transformations, but God's choice is a polished shaft, not one marred and shattered.

Modest instruments: A shaft is a word no truer for its jeweled hilt. "Man looketh outwardly but God looketh on the heart." He sees not the hilt but the shaft. I saw the pellets of Millet at Fontenoy, very common indeed are they, but his paintings sell for five figures.

Sincerity is a quality necessary for a place in the Divine Quiver. "If a man therefore shall cleanse himself from these he shall be a vessel unto honor, sanctified, and meet for the Master's use." Such are true to the target. A polished shaft does not "glint" nor "flirt" nor "zigzag." Do not look for them in the "branch" but always in their proper place. They fit the bow of Divine purpose, and beautifully execute his will.

Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of Prospect Street M. E. Church, has been appointed to the M. E. Church at Edgerton, O., during a Central German Conference at Prospect Street M. E. Church in September, 1915.

Reverend Patow has been a minister for more than 13 years since he received his first appointment to the M. E. Church at Edgerton, O., during a Central German Conference at Prospect Street M. E. Church in September, 1915.

The year 1915 Reverend Patow regards as the most memorable in his career. "For it was the year I completed school, received my first appointment and was married to Miss Grace M. Allinger, daughter of the late Rev. and Mrs. Louis Allinger," he says.

When Reverend and Mrs. Patow came here two years ago it was to make their home at 152 S. Prospect St., where Mrs. Patow's parents, Reverend and Mrs. Allinger, resided not quite 50 years before, during the period when Reverend Allinger served as pastor of the Prospect Street M. E. Church.

Relics of the Past
Not long after coming here and while work of repairing some wiring about the parsonage was in progress, Mrs. Patow discovered in an opening in the wall a postal card and a newspaper addressed to her father here nearly 50 years ago. Mrs. Patow had never resided here herself, having been born after the family, including her parents, one sister and three brothers, had moved to Detroit.

Reverend Patow is active in both the Marion County Ministerial Association and the Central German Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church.

Rev. K. W. Patow Now Pastor of Church Where He Received First Appointment

BY FRANCES JENNINGS

To serve as a pastor of the church from which he received his first appointment 14 years ago and to occupy the house in which his wife's parents made their home nearly a half century before he came here in September, 1927, are unusual features in the record of Rev. Karl W. Patow, pastor of Prospect Street M. E. Church.

MORRIS-MORIN BILL SENT TO COOLIDGE

Measure Would Provide Government Operation for Muscle Shoals

Washington, May 26.—The Norris-Morin Muscle Shoals bill—keeping a large industrial enterprise in government hands and providing for an agricultural experiment reaching into every corner of the nation—was laid before President Coolidge today.

Leaders in the long fight for government operation of the great war-time plant were hopeful that Mr. Coolidge would approve the bill, with opponents making predictions of another veto.

But in a night conference, the president was declared to be one of the most far-reaching pieces of legislation of its kind ever enacted by Congress. The bill provides:

Provisions of Bill

Setting up of Muscle Shoals Corporation with $100,000,000 capital stock, all government-owned.

Operation of hydro-electric and steam power plants and sale of electricity with rates and municipalities having first right to purchase.

Maintenance of fixed nitrogen for use in experimental manufacture of commercial fertilizers.

Authority to cooperate with national, state, district or county experimental stations for use of new forms of fertilizers and the right to contract with private firms for additional fertilizer plants in the development of the government's program.

Permits one per cent of fertilizers to be distributed through agricultural agents, county agents or otherwise for demonstration and education of farmers in practical use of fertilizers.

Establish Laboratories

Maintenance of laboratories and experimental plants for development of forms of commercial fertilizer and nitrogen products.

Completion of dam No. 2 at Muscle Shoals and steam nitrate plant No. 2, authorized building of Core dam in Tennessee, 350 miles from Muscle Shoals, for purpose of regulating flow of Tennessee River and tributaries.

Patents registered in patent office in use of government in carrying out program.

$200 Million Spent

More than $200,000,000 has been spent on the project at Muscle Shoals. The proposed Core dam, Tennessee, the proposed generation of 200,000 horsepower of electricity, is estimated to cost $275,000,000.

When the entire project is completed, government will own one of the largest hydro-electric developments in the world. Plants at Muscle Shoals are capable of producing 100,000 horsepower, it is estimated.

Cost of carrying out the terms of the Norris-Morin bill have been estimated from $200,000,000 to $100,000,000.

Dead as Congressional Problem, It Promises To Worry Kansas City

Explains Vote

The situation was so tense politically that Curtis felt called upon to explain his vote, as follows:

"I have always favored farm relief legislation as shown by my vote for every farm relief measure voted on in Congress since the war, and by my action in offering two readily approved measures which would have given relief had they been adopted. Much as I sympathize with the farmers and as much as I favor legislative relief for them, as Republican leader of the Senate on this vote I felt it my duty to stand by the president."

Eighteen other Republicans, among them numerous vice presidential aspirants, felt the same urge and voted to sustain the veto. They include Edge, Republican, of New Jersey; Moses of New Hampshire; Borah of Idaho; Fessenden of Ohio; the Kansas City keynotes, while Gov. of West Virginia, was paired to sustain.

20 Forbade White House

Twenty Republicans forsook the White House, among them being Curtis, Senator Capper of Kansas; Senator Watson of Indiana and Senator Norris of Nebraska, the only Republican presidential aspirants recorded against Mr. Coolidge.

The Democrats split 20-11 in favor of overriding the veto. Presidential candidates on the Democratic side were split, too, as Walsh of Montana, voted to sustain the veto, while George of Georgia, voted to override, and Reed of Missouri, abstained from voting.

None of the four senators who changed their votes are up for reelection this year. None save Curtis gave any explanation of their reasons for switching.

The fight over the agricultural plank at Kansas City promises to be a bitter one, comparable perhaps to the fight over the prohibition plank by the Democrats at Houston. The McNary-Haugenies, counselled and advised by two such outstanding Republicans as Vice President Dawes and Ex-Gov. Frank O. Lowden, are going to Kansas City determined that if they lose their fight against Hoover it will be only at the price of hammering into the platform an agrarian plank that Mr. Hoover will be uncomfortable standing upon.

START FINAL WORK ON TRAFFIC LIGHTS

City's New Signal System Expected To Be in Operation Next Week

Selecting the light which had been on display at the Central Fire Station as the first to be installed, employees of the United Electric Co. yesterday afternoon started installation of the new side arm traffic lights which will guide motorists at the city's six busiest intersections.

The first light was placed at the northeast corner of Church and Prospect. Before the installation was completed the remainder of the lights, which had been shipped Saturday, arrived from Ft. Wayne, Ind., assuring continuance of work on the new system.

With a continuation of favorable weather, it is expected the lights will be installed and ready to be turned on by the latter part of next week, it was stated by employees of the United Electric Co. yesterday. Poles for 17 of the 24 lights are now ready. The remaining seven poles to be used are the property of the C. L. & M. Electric Co., and the work of cutting holes in the poles for the cables will be done by C. L. & M. employees.

The poles erected by the United Electric Co. have all been set in concrete and all wiring completed ready for the lights. Cable for the master control to be installed at police headquarters has also been strung and electronics yesterday were running wires into the office of the desk sergeant, where the control will be placed.

The lights will stand out horizontal from the iron pole and are equipped with the three lens, red, amber and green, lettered with the words, "stop," "change" and "go."

PLANES AND AUTOS ARE SEEKING BANDITS

killed the physician as the easiest means of being rid of him.

Two other bank officials, E. E. Kinnings and Charles Lundgren, were abducted by the bandits and taken on their wild flight into Kansas. Lundgren was later released, the bandits taking "prize" on him because he had only one arm.

A reward of $20,000 is taken dead, and $10,000 if captured alive, was posted for the bandits today.

Six hundred automobiles, many of them carrying heavily armed citizens from Denver and nearby towns, are included in the posse. Four airplanes are acting as "eyes" for the searchers.

We would fear for the future of the boy who "tosses the other chick."

OFFICIAL OF UNION IS SPEAKER HERE

J. L. Owens of New Jersey Addresses Local Brotherhood Meeting

J. L. Owens, Hawthorne, N. J., general chairman of the Erie railroad board of adjustment, addressed members of Marion Lodge No. 823, Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employees at the regular meeting held last night at Central Labor Union Hall. Mr. Owens was enroute from the brotherhood convention in Columbus, which he attended as a delegate.

According to Mr. Owens a number of new local lodges have recently been formed in the Erie system. Speaking of the convention he said that it was the most progressive he had ever attended and expressed the opinion that the recent re-affiliation of the union with the American Federation of Labor would open a new era for its members.

The meeting last night was well attended, according to the report of the secretary, Ralph K. Ruppert. The next meeting will be held June 22. A full report at that time. The next convention will be held in Denver, Colo., in May, 1935.

Graduation ceremonies. Seniors will attend Commencement and Class Day exercises, garbed in caps and gowns of gray, befitting the dignity of the occasion. The banquet promises to be more colorful, as the new "party" frocks and graduation suits are to be worn.

When decorations call for color, the senior class colors of silver and salmon will be used and the class flower, the salmon tree rose. The motto of the class of 1935 is, "Our aim success; our hope to win."

St. Mary's Parochial School, which this year graduates a class of 22, has announced commencement for Thursday, June 14, at the Star Auditorium. Their annual Junior-Senior Banquet will also be given on Tuesday night at Hotel Harding.

MARINES O K

Kellogg and Wilbur Busy Charming From London

Washington, May 26.—Charges published in London papers that American Marines in Nicaragua were guilty of pillage and other acts of unnecessary violence were vigorously denied today by Secretaries Kellogg of the State Department and Wilbur of the Navy. Mr. Gen. John A. Lejeune added the unqualified denunciation of the English charges said to have originated in anti-official, but uncorroborated, quarters.

"There is not a word of truth in such reports," said Kellogg. "The Marines are acting under rigid discipline, with explicit orders not to disturb the civil occupations of the people."

Crystal Lake Park Ready For Opening Event Monday

The last horse on the merry-go-round has been polished, the last car on the roller-coaster has been greased and all is now in readiness for the formal opening of Marion's chief outdoor amusement center, Crystal Lake Park, Monday night.

The bathing beach as well as all of the amusement attractions will be open Monday for the summer and will be in operation each afternoon and night until fall. The dance hall, which was formally opened on Thursday night.

Concerts and other free entertainment on Sunday afternoons and nights during the week will be a part of the park program this summer. The management of the park has also announced that free coffee, cream and sugar and hot water will be provided to all patrons of this summer, regardless of the size of the group.

It is the plan of the management to have at least one large receding orchestra at the park each week. Park plan dancing will be in effect each night of the week except when special orchestras are scheduled to appear. No admission will be charged to the dance hall on park nights.

An arcade containing $10,000 worth of Arcade picture machines and a "fun-house," are new additions to the park amusements this year.

HURT COLLEGE GIRL STILL UNCONSCIOUS

Helen Buschmann Has Been in State of Coma Since Jan. 15

Painesville, May 26.—After spending four and one-half months in a coma at Painesville Memorial Hospital, Helen Buschmann, 19, of Westfield, Mass., today still was in the institution, unconscious.

The young woman, a Lake Erie college student, was struck by a motor bus near here Jan. 15, last. Her skull was fractured and an operation was performed immediately afterward, during which bone particles protruded against the brain, were removed by Dr. Claude Beck, noted Cleveland surgeon. Miss Buschmann failed to regain consciousness and physicians have become more and more puzzled by the strange case. Surg. M. C. Goffard of the hospital, has described it as "one of the most extraordinary cases that has come under my observation."

Dr. V. N. Marsh, attending physician, told International News Service today that it would take a "long, long time before we will know whether the patient will be able to regain her normal consciousness."

Mrs. Emma Buschmann, the unconscious girl's mother, is in Painesville and spends as much time as possible at her daughter's bedside. She has made her home here with friends.

SCHOOL CHILDREN IN SERVICE SUNDAY

More Than 300 Parochial Pupils To Have Part in Program

Crowning of the May Queen by children of St. Mary's Parochial School at 7:30 o'clock Sunday night will mark the solemn closing of the month of May, devoted to special honoring of the Blessed Virgin.

More than 300 school children will sing hymns of special devotion during the procession which will precede the crowning of the statue of the Blessed Virgin by Miss Mae Hannegan, senior in the parochial high school. Miss Kathleen Tobin, also a senior, will serve as crown bearer. Both girls were chosen for honors in general excellence. The service will conclude with benediction.

FIRE EXTINGUISHED AT LOCAL PLANT

Prompt action on the part of firemen from the Central Station prevented a serious fire at the upholstery plant of Howard & Howison, 8, Prospect, this morning when a room caught fire and for many minutes other materials used in the work, caught fire from some unknown cause. The blaze was extinguished with chemicals by firemen from the Central Station who responded to a call sent by employees of the company. The damage was confined to a scorching wall and to badly smoked furniture. The loss is estimated at $25.

DAMAGE SUIT FILED IN COURT BY EDITOR

Seeks $1,025 for Alleged Unlawful Imprisonment by Lancaster Squire

Lancaster, May 26.—William T. Lewis, editor of the Lancaster Daily Gazette, whose sentence of 100 days in the county jail and imposition of $100 fine and costs, meted out by Squire Boarder, was dismissed by Judge Shelt, today filed a suit aggregating $1,025 against Judge Boarder.

Alleging unlawful imprisonment on a contempt of court charge and arrest on an unlawful warrant the case was placed in the hands of Thurman T. Courtright, local legal attorney, who promptly started legal action in Fair-Field County common pleas court. The suit asks damages of $1,000 and attorney's fees of $25.

The filing of the suit comes as an aftermath to the situation created when an editorial in the Gazette censured Boarder for imposing a small fine upon a Columbus man who was alleged to have endangered the life of a woman by towing her from his speeding automobile onto the highway after an argument between the couple. A warrant for Lewis' arrest was sworn out and he was jailed before Judge Boarder, fined $10 and costs and sentenced to 10 days in the county jail.

Lewis appealed the sentence and was released on a habeas corpus writ and the charges dismissed by Judge Shelt, before whom the hearing was held. The editor served but two hours of his 10-day sentence.

SUIT IS APPEALED BY SHOVEL COMPANY

Seeks Supreme Court Ruling in Power Rate Dispute with C. D. & M.

Decision of the District Court of Appeals was appealed to the Supreme Court of Ohio today by the Marion Steam Shovel Co. in its court fight with the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Co. over the interpretation of a clause in a contract between the two firms regarding power rates.

The decision of the Court of Appeals, given more than a week ago, upheld the decision of Judge George H. Norfield in the Marion County Common Pleas Court.

The clause in dispute relates to deductions allowed for interruption in service due to storm and other unavoidable causes. The contract provides that the Marion Shovel Co. is to be given a deduction of two-thirds of the power bill for the month should service be interrupted.

Officials of the shovel company hold that this credit is to be allowed each time the power goes off, regardless of the length of duration. The C. D. & M. contends that service must be interrupted for full day before the shovel company is entitled to the reduction.

In addition to upholding the decision of the Common Pleas Court, the Court of Appeals held that the interpretation of the interested parties was not involved in the case as contracts of this kind came under the jurisdiction of the State Utilities Commission and that the regulations of that body governed the case.

SPANISH WAR VETS ELECT DELEGATES

Local Camp To Be Represented at State Encampment in Chillicothe

Charles Ooley, W. Michaels and H. Porter were chosen as delegates and Scott Haysom, H. L. Hatfield and Frank Lattimore, alternate delegates, at the regular meeting of Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans, held at the Armory last night, to represent the local camp at the State Encampment to be held in Chillicothe June 24, 25 and 26.

An invitation to attend memorial services at the United Brethren church Sunday morning, was accepted by the Camp and the veterans were instructed to meet at the courthouse at 10 o'clock that morning. The Camp also accepted an invitation to attend the Decoration Day services to be held at French Ridge, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

It was also announced at the meeting that the general Decoration Day Committee for Memorial Day would meet at the Legion layout on High-st. Monday night at 7:30 o'clock to make further plans for the observance of Memorial Day.

CEAUGA COUNTY SHERIFF NOT TO ALLOW GAMBLING

Cleveland, May 26.—Hopes of Northern Ohio racing fans for a revival of running races this year, were rapidly fading today following the announcement of Sheriff Frank Nelson of Ceauga County that he would not permit gambling at a new 15-acre track under construction on the Cuyahoga League line near here.

Cuyahoga and adjoining counties have been without horse races for several months due to "the betting" riots of respective sherrifs.

CHARGE AGAINST AUTO OWNER IS CHANGED

A charge of driving an automobile while intoxicated, on which Harry Baird, Jefferson-st., was arrested last night, was changed to an intoxication charge in Municipal Court this morning when it was discovered that although Baird had entered the automobile and started the engine, the car had not been running.

When arraigned before Municipal Judge Martin this morning, Baird admitted taking several drinks but denied he was driving the car, court officials report. He later pleaded guilty to the intoxication charge and was fined $10 and costs, which he paid and was released.

LEASE IS TAKEN ON ORPHEUM THEATER

Will Be Operated by New Owner of Oakland; Plans Remodeling

Another movie house for Marion was in prospect today when it was announced by Charles E. Meikel that a five-year lease had been taken on the Orpheum Theater by Reuben Maxson of Celina, new owner of the Oakland Theater. The lease carries an option for five years additional, according to Mr. Meikel, owner of the building in which the theater is located.

The lease, however, will not go into effect until June 1, 1935, when the lease of the Marion Photoplay Co. on the Orpheum expires. It was stated today that Maxson was attempting to buy the lease of the Marion Photoplay Co. for the intervening period. Whether this transaction will be completed was not known today by officials of the company.

In case Maxson is able to negotiate a deal with the Marion Photoplay Co. he plans to remodel the theater and hopes to be ready to open by the time the W. Centerville improvement is completed. Plans for remodeling call for a new front, new seats and redecoration.

The Orpheum, formerly a vaudeville house, has been closed for the past year. Maxson plans to show motion pictures exclusively.

Daily Proverb—"He that walketh with the virtuous is one of them."

At present Henry Ford is employing 112,632 men in his Detroit plants, a new peak record. The outlook daily grows darker for us true aristocrats of the land.

It's hard to understand how so many Americans happen to express hope for the settlement of the trouble in China. There probably isn't a people upon the face of the earth so addicted to the puzzle habit.

In the face of Colonel Lindbergh's repeated denials of the story that he contemplates a flight to Europe, the coming summer, we will just about have to conclude that somebody's imagination has been working overtime.

The justice of the peace down in Lancaster who sentenced an editor to ten days in jail and fined him $20 "for contempt" probably has a better conception of his limitations since the judge of the court of common pleas down there showed him the error of his way.

"Haps Farm Relief Veto" reads a headline over a Celine story in reference to the present activities of State Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax. Charles does considerable rapping at all times, but just at present his activities along that line may be somewhat accentuated as he looks longingly toward a seat in the United States senate.

It is announced that the campaign fund committee will continue its labors regardless of the adjournment of congress. It's simply amazing what a hold snooping gets upon those elected in this day and age to make laws for the country.

Senator Nye is now urging that Edward L. Doheny and Albert B. Fall be indicted on a charge of bribery. Let us hope that Gerald will not become so engrossed in his punitive pursuits that he will let congress adjourn without making good his promise to give the widest publicity to the result of the investigation he had conducted down here in the hope of uncovering some of those Continental bonds.

The wife of a Chicago broker attempted to explain her failure to observe a stop light by telling the judge in the traffic court that her time was worth $1,000 a minute. The judge, after a wait of forty minutes, fined her two dollars and costs. Forty thousand and four dollars and seventy-five cents looks like an awful penalty for failure to observe a traffic signal, but maybe that judge knows his business.

President Coolidge has signed a bill which authorizes a maximum expenditure of $4,500,000 for a magnificent highway from the Arlington Memorial bridge to Mt. Vernon. In the age of the automobile, such a highway will prove worthy of the expenditure. The home of the "Father of His Country" is more than a shrine. A visit to it is an education.

According to a Buffalo wire, the government is in possession of sufficient evidence to break up an international rum ring which has been smuggling from fifty to sixty carloads of liquor a day from Canada into Buffalo, and is believed to have carried on similar operations at Detroit. Really, we are beginning to suspect that the gentlemanly bootleggers are making some of our friends pay the prices they do under false pretenses.

The Snooping Eliminated.

By an overwhelming vote, Friday, the senate rescinded the snap action taken on the proposal of Senator George W. Norris, of Nebraska, earlier in the week, opening income tax returns to public inspection. The Norris proposal was put through when less than half the members of the senate were in their seats and the majority of those present were lined up with the radical elements of the body by a vote of twenty-seven to nineteen. It is worthy of note that the vote by which the senate eliminated the Norris proposal from the tax-reduction bill was fifty-seven to twenty-three. In other words, the senators voting against the publicity proposal outnumbered by eleven the entire vote recorded when the radicals succeeded in putting the Norris amendment over.

Senator Couzens, of Michigan, and Senator LaFollette, of Wisconsin, fought hard for the retention of the Norris proposal, but to no avail. Eleven radicals elected as Republicans, eleven Democrats of somewhat radical tendencies and Shipstead, the farmer-labor member, voted for retention, the total vote showing a loss of four from that by which the amendment was put over. Even the senate seems to have become conscious of the fact that snooping has lost whatever popularity, if any, it had.

The publicity feature thus cut out, the bill calling for a tax cut of $222,495,000 was passed without a record vote. That it will receive house approval is unquestioned, and the act it carries is not so far beyond the limit set by the treasury as to justify the view that it will not receive the approval of the president.

Railroads "Pointing with Pride."

Ordinarily, we look to the political spin-linders to begin "pointing with pride" about this time of the year, but this year the railroads of the land appear to have beaten them to it and begun a little prideful pointing on their own account, based on the manner in which they have furnished cars to shippers.

Back in 1920 the average weekly shortage of cars was 81,592. The following year, despite the fact that there was a big slump in the freight business, the weekly car shortage averaged 1,451. The year thereafter, 1922, as a result of the strike of railroad shop employees, a maximum shortage of 179,000 cars occurred, and the weekly average for the year was almost 48,000. Then the railway people got together and early in the spring of 1923 put a new car-furnishing program into effect and so strengthened and increased the powers of the car service division of the American Railway association that a decided improvement was soon manifested. That year the average weekly car shortage was 27,216. In 1924 it had dropped to 1,947 and the year following it was cut to 437. Despite the record-breaking business of 1924 it was still further cut to 287. In 1925, for the first time in the history of American railroads, there were two weeks during which no orders for cars went unfilled. In 1926 three weeks were reported without any shortages, and last year there were four consecutive weeks with every order for cars filled.

This brings us up to the present year, for the first seventeen weeks of which there was an average weekly shortage of cars requisitioned by shippers of but fourteen, while 99.99 per cent. of the cars ordered were promptly furnished by the roads, and for the seven weeks preceding April 20 there was a weekly average of 957,495 cars furnished and loaded and not a single order for a car went unfilled. In a word, there was 100 per cent. performance by the railroads in filling orders for cars by shippers, every car asked for being delivered at the time and place specified by the shipper—a record never before attained in the history of railroading, either in this country or abroad.

The railroads of the United States can not be blamed for being proud of such a record. Their pride in it is wholly justified.

"It is an unfortunate fact of life," says the Decatur Herald, "that the contests of scholarship have no dramatic value." Wonder what that eminent Shakespearean scholar, Gene Tunney, will have to say of that?

Charles M. Schwab predicts that the volume of business of this year will exceed that of last. While it would hardly do to claim that Mr. Schwab ever was a pessimist, and the same time it's fair to say that he has never been known to be unduly optimistic regarding coming business conditions. His predictions have very generally been realized to the full.

Speeding along a highway, one night recently, a Connecticut motorcyclist hit two deer, killing both of them and himself. The deer have something on us true aristocrats of the land. Occasionally they get revenge, even if they don't kill you.

Serge Voronoff, the gland rejuvenation expert, told a London interviewer that, as a result of his latest experiments, there is a possibility of a strong, virile, disease-free new race peopling the earth. It's a trifling startling to contemplate the passing of the human race like that.

Antiquity of Artificial Hatching.

From Cairo came the statement, a day or two ago, that hatching eggs by artificial means had been practiced in Egypt as far back as the time of the building of the pyramids.

We knew, of course, that the artificial hatching of eggs was not an accomplishment limited to recent years, but we had no idea that it went far back beyond the Christian era; that one of the oldest sayings common in Egypt is to the effect that the Egyptian hen had about given up hope of ever becoming a chugging mother. We recalled the forerunner of the modern incubator which became so popular a score or two of years ago, but we little imagined that the principle from which it was adapted was known and utilized so far back in antiquity.

And now comes a correspondent writing from Egypt who tells us that Egypt's egg-hatching union is one of the oldest trade organizations known to history and that the incubator at present used in Egypt is practically the same as that used there thousands of years ago.

"It is done shaped," he tells us, "and about fifteen feet in diameter and built of mud brick. There is a hole at the top, the hut being divided into six compartments, with a small passage in the center. Each compartment has two platforms which hold about 500 eggs. In all the incubator has space for approximately 6,000 eggs. "The fire for heating is in a trench which encircles the hut, coal being used for fuel. With the top closed, the fires are allowed to smoulder five days. The top is then opened, and the fires damped down to smouldering until the fourth day. From that time on the heat from the incubating eggs is sufficient to keep the eggs at the right temperature, and on the twenty-first day the little animated balls of fluff begin popping out and start looking for something to eat."

As we go along in this life of ours we discover that much we had assumed to be of today it of the yesterday of history; that much for which we had long given credit to the inventive genius of the present era was thought out centuries in the past. And possibly it may be just as well that we occasionally make these discoveries of our errors in this respect. We have developed so much that is new, our discoveries have been so many, our accomplishments so great, that there is always the possibility that we may acquire an over-appreciation of ourselves and assume that we are representatives of all the wisdom of the ages. It will not do us harm to know that much that we know was known by those who came before us, and it will not hurt to know that some of the arts known to have been known to them are unknown to us.

ANOTHER BACK-SEAT DRIVER.

Cause of Dilation.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

If the organ is normal, the human stomach has a capacity of four or five pints. Under certain conditions it dilates so enormously as to have a capacity of thirty or forty pints. There is one case on record where it reached seventy pints.

Continued poor health from any cause manifests itself by lack of resistance of the body tissues. Muscular tone is reduced. The body is lost just as a rubber band loses its life and snap. Anything, then, that results in impaired health, wasting of the tissues of the body and general lack of tone, may be followed by going way of the tissues and stretching of the stomach walls.

Chronic inflammation of the lining of the stomach may prepare the way for this unpleasant condition. Such an inflammation is usually the result of over-eating or overdrinking. Although not the only cause by any means, beer drinking used to be a fruitful cause for dilation of the stomach.

There are cases of acute dilation, the result of a single indulgence in an enormous meal. It is much more common, of course, to find the dilation coming on gradually, the result of long continued overeating.

There are cases where disease has obstructed the opening from the stomach into the intestine. As the growth of disease has progressed, the passage-way has grown smaller and smaller. In consequence, the contents of the stomach have been dammed up and the walls of that organ have been more and more distended. In time, the elasticity of the stomach walls is lost and eventually the dilation is enormous.

The symptoms vary, but almost always there is distress, the patient complaining of discomfort in the stomach. In spite of this, however, he calls for food and never seems satisfied. He will eat till the stomach is filled and then he may vomit a great quantity of food and fluid. In some cases the amount expelled has been a full gallon. Vomiting is one of the most frequent symptoms of dilation.

One would expect the consumption of such enormous quantities of food to result in added flesh. As a matter of fact, however, little of the food is absorbed and the patient grows more and more thin and scrawny. Constipation, dryness of the body, limited urinary secretion, and lack of strength are characteristic.

The treatment is not pleasant, but it is immediately effective. Washing out the stomach quickly relieves the trouble. This procedure is done once a day.

There must be strict regulation of the eating habits of the patient. Small quantities of food are given and the meals should be taken more frequently than are required by healthy persons. Starchy and fat foods are omitted. Sugar is taken in moderation. Liquids are cut down to the minimum.

Needless to say, fresh air, lots of sleep, and all the rules of simple living are indicated. Everything that builds up the general health will restore tone to the weak stomach walls.

With the aid of this sort of recovery it is expected.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Margaret Calkin Banning, successful author, says perseverance and persistence are what bring success to the writer. Thirty or forty rejection slips must not be taken as final. Writing is a worthy and dignified profession, and it is not to be learned in a hurry. Unfortunately there are some people seized with the idea that they have a talent for writing when all they really have is the desire. The desire is important, but it is far from enough. Few, even with the beginnings of talent, are willing to pay the price of hard and exacting practice.

Germany has long been considered a leader in matters musical. America has been thought lacking or too new in the development of the arts—especially music. Zimbalist, famous violinist, now comes back from a world tour and says America is the real place of music and musicians.

"America," he says, "leads the world in all forms of musical activities. We have left Germany far behind. We not only have the best orchestras and the best concertists, but we have men who write excellent music."

This, from one who knows, is quite an answer to the call of anti-Americans.

Count Keyserling, one of many who have come from abroad to tell us what the matter with our country, returns to Europe with the remark that Americans are not "thinkers," although in time he believes they may become rational.

Of course the human mind, wherever he lives, is not much given to thinking. He really doesn't have to think, relying chiefly on instincts with which he is amply and fatuously supplied. But the brand of thinking in America is about as sound and clear, what there is of it, as that of any other place.

Americans are frequently accused of being egotistic. Foreigners sometimes tell us we have a superiority complex. A French girl, writing to the Chicago Daily News, perhaps comes nearer the truth when she says Americans really have an inferiority complex. Most of us over here come to believe, because we hear it so often, that imported goods are the best. English goods are the real thing. German universities are the best in the world; our doctors must study in Vienna; our musicians must go abroad, French bread is better than American bread, and imported Christmas cards and automobiles are the finest. We pay more for poor Swiss cheese made in Switzerland and pay less for excellent Swiss cheese made in New York or Wisconsin. To feel the way we do about many kinds of foreign goods is partly a pose and partly mere ignorance.

The First Americans.

BY GARRETT P. SERVICE.

Oklahoma, so closely associated with the memory of the first-known inhabitants of this western world, who, by our advance have been driven almost into extinction, has recently gained fresh renown on a count of the discovery within its borders of certain "artifacts," supposed to have been made by a prehistoric people, who lived in America as long ago as the "Pleistocene" epoch. This corresponds with what is more familiarly known as the Great Ice Age, with its several successive glacial stages, within which, or between which, the earliest known types of mankind—the "Men of the Old Stone Age"—lived and died. The beginning of this epoch runs back hundreds of thousands of years.

"Artifacts" are "anything made or modified by human art," and in archaeology the question is often debated whether certain objects or objects are really artifacts or only accidental products shaped by natural forces. Upon the decision of this question—and sometimes such a decision can be no more than the statement of greater or lesser probability—may depend thousands of years of "prehistory," as happens in this particular case.

The objects in question were found at Fredrick, Oklahoma, buried in a bed of gravel situated on a hilltop rising about 100 feet above the surrounding valley. They consist mainly of "grinding stones" resembling those made by the Sioux and other Indians a generation ago, before they learned from white men how to supply themselves with more effective implements.

Harold A. Cook, of the Colorado Museum of Natural History, holds that they date from the Pleistocene, the gravel being manifestly of that epoch. Some agree with him, others disagree, even disputing the claim that the objects are artifacts at all. Without taking sides in the discussion it may be remarked that there exists a strong hold position to admit that primitive man lived in America as early as he did in Europe and Asia. The favorite theory at present is that the first inhabitants of North America came over from Asia by way of the Bering sea and across the land route, and of early expeditions have been undertaken, or proposed, with the professed expectation of finding archaeological evidence in support of this theory.

The fact that the white discoverers of America, five or six hundred years ago, found it thinly populated in most places, while nowhere had its inhabitants attained as high a degree of civilization as that which existed in Europe, might be taken, a priori, as evidence that it had never possessed inhabitants at a very early period. On the other hand, it should be remembered that even in the Old World, the connected history goes back more than two or three thousand years beyond the Christian era.

Remarkable ancient races lived and flourished in western Europe, some of them, like the Cro-Magnons, evidently possessing a high degree of intellectual power, and yet they have left but scattered and meagre remains and their connection with earlier and later races can only be conjectured. Their homes have since become the homes of the most civilized peoples of modern times, who, however, have only lately discovered that these earlier men ever had an existence. Yet they dwell on the same soil. Here in America the same thing is happening, for many reasons, it ought to be encouraged and insisted upon that the scattered and uncoordinated efforts should be co-ordinated and pursued on a systematic plan.

The sciences in North America, during the "Ice" age were at least as remarkable as those in Europe, and it can not yet be said positively that there were no human witnesses of that strange time on this side of the ocean; that no hunter with flint pointed spear pursued the mastodon or saw him mired in the swamps that have preserved his giant skeletons for our museums.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

Editorial Opinion.

GOES NOBLEST SONS.

Noguchi has fallen, another matchless martyr in the ranks of that super heroism which transcends that of the soldier as the stars transcend the sands of the sea's shores in the glory of superlative luminance.

It was years ago that Dr. Hideo Noguchi, acting under Rockefeller institutional authority, discovered and isolated the bubonic yellow fever germ. This discovery led ultimately to the practically complete banishment of the hideous ancient plague from the Western Hemisphere, where today the faintest garden spots of the world are safe for human habitation so far as the yellow demon is concerned.

Dr. Noguchi performed many other various distinguished work in the realm of medical research. He became known wherever science and devotion to human physical need are esteemed. And now he is dead, a victim to further experimental investigation into the mysteries of varied types of yellow fever, which still hold the Atlantic Gold coast in pestilential embrace.

"Greater love hath no man"—and it doesn't matter what the color of that man's skin may be, nor the character of his spiritual faith—"than he who lays down his life for another." And that is what Noguchi has done. But he did not pass until his work was finished. What he discovered on the dread Gold coast now is the possession of a grateful humanity. It is probable that to the investigations and experiments there made by the eminent Japanese scientist the world will owe an even greater deliverance than he for wrought in South America.

Noguchi died as Father Damien died—as Agamemnon and many another of the sons of science and religion and patriotism have died. The world owes him high honor. He was one of God's noblest sons.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A NEW USE FOR RADIO.

Since radio-telephone conversations can be carried on across the Atlantic, it might have been foreseen that radio was the thing to establish communication between the locomotive and the caboose of freight trains. The distance across the Atlantic is about 3,600 miles. The distance from end to end of the longest freight trains is only about a mile. It should be much easier, therefore, to radio-telephone from locomotive to caboose than it is to telephone from New York or St. Louis to London. And it proved to be in a recent test of a radio installation on a New York Central freight train of 125 cars. The test was so successful that it is considered likely that radio will be put into general use on the freight service.

Here is another new use for radio, for which so many new uses have been discovered. Capable of bridging the Atlantic, it may be also of some utility in spanning the mile or lesser distance from head to tail of the freight train. Since it requires no wires it would not interfere in any way with switching operations. While in a few instances radio programs have been found for passenger cars on American railroads, and may be on a later scale in the future, radio may be more useful in the freight train in the passenger service.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. MINTYRE.

New York, May 24.—An agitation is a change the name of New York's famous prison—the Tombs. Argument is advanced that the psychological effect is a deterrent to prisoners by name suggesting the death of hope and numbing inclination to better resolves.

It has been discovered that a large majority of hardened criminals paid their penitence in the Tombs. It is the conviction of prison welfare workers that the change of criminal regeneration is to turn prisoners into respectable paths when released as first offenders.

After two or three terms the task becomes almost impossible and is the mental outlook of the first offender that needs to be saved from the paralyzing effect of the notion that he has become a social outcast. The designation—The Tombs, it is claimed helps foster the idea.

The sullen architecture of The Tombs is depressing as its name, and gives the suggestion its designers took some sort of delight in making the structure cold and menacing. Silhouetted in a falling dusk, the drab slate-gray pile becomes shuddery.

That it has stirred the most desperate rage is evidenced by numerous bloody and fearful outbreaks. In perhaps no other American prison, save Folsom in California, have there been concerted such hazardous schemes as willingly risked their necks to escape.

Almost every year there is a "Tombs break." The prisoners are treated no better, or no worse than in other penal institutions, but its atmosphere is so somber that the inmates they begin plotting for freedom.

Even the surrounding area of The Tombs seems affected by its grimness. Lafayette street is a jangle of activity, save for several blocks north or south of The Tombs, where there is unexplained desolation. And musty structures leading over the highway to The Tombs to the criminal courts building, and known as the "Bridge of Sighs," does not add joy to the gloom.

Three gentlemen as many blocks stopped me today to inquire if they were on Fifth avenue. What is this—a monkey business?

There is something about New York that breeds a suspicion by any untoward act of strangers. Most of us, no matter how long we have lived here, have a pronounced Rube Goldberg complex. We are keyed up to the idea that anything experience out of the usual is another Tombs, and that we will be the victims. As likely as not that is what it turns out to be.

My idea of luxury is that of a New Yorker who buys three seats to the theater for himself and wife. The extra seat is used as a place to put their hats and wraps.

And the keenest disappointment of the week was experienced by a lady just returning from Paris. She purchased what she had been guaranteed was an absolutely exclusive gown. It was the model and no more were to be made. At the ship's gala night she appeared in the flock, and after noting six exactly like it in every detail of color and make, she remained in her cabin for the rest of the voyage. Not exactly angry or hurt, but understood—but just as mad as the devil.

Due to the artificial tanning processes, society no longer considers it smart to be the brown of an autumn leaf.

That's a pretty dull paragraph. I often wish a columnist when he feels himself slightly could resort to some theatrical trick—like walking with a huge ostrich fan—to sustain interest.—Copyright, 1928, by the McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

IDEAL PLACE FOR VACATION

New Modern Plumbing and Water System Assure
Health Safety

With new modern plumbing and water system installed, assuring perfect sanitation and health safeguards, the local Y. M. C. A. camp, located at Heppburn, is ready for opening of the camping season, which will start June 18.

The first thought of a well-meaning parent is: "Will it be safe to let my boy or girl go to camp?" The answer, as far as Camp Robert Uhler is concerned, is found in a detailed statement which has been prepared by the camp management and which is printed below. This is the camp conducted each summer at Heppburn by the Y. M. C. A.

The statement, giving a description of the camp facilities and the program for this summer, follows:
Sanitation and Hygiene—Everything is done that is possible in the way of sanitation and hygiene. This will be more so this year with our bettered toilet facilities. Toilets are of the water type.

All water used will pass the state test. An electric pumping system has been installed to supply the dining lodge and kitchen.

Each boy is examined thoroughly after his arrival at camp and a close check kept on him every day.

Boys are allowed to swim only at certain times during the day. Each boy will have a buddy with him in the water. The camp directors and several leaders will be on duty at the water front during swimming hours.

The use of boats is very carefully regulated.

Other Safeguards—Boxes of candy, cake, crackers, etc., must not be left with or sent to the boys. We will only be responsible for the boys' health in this way.

Parents are requested not to take the boys out of camp for any length of time.

Only the best foods, prepared by a fine cook, will be served at the camp. Supervision is given by men of training and experience.

The camp affords water toilets, lake front, physical up-building, first aid lodge, wooden-floored tents, screened dining lodge, new kitchen, good table, lot of ground, limited registration, baseball games, treasure hunts, boating, archery, swimming, field hikes, woodcraft, nature study, campfire.

Camp Periods—The summer is divided into three groups:

Prep Period, boys 9 to 11, June 18-30.

Cadet Period, boys 12 to 15, July 2-14.

High School, boys 15 and over, July 16-28.

Girls' period, 10 yrs. and over, July 30 to August 11.

Camp closes Saturday, Aug. 11. Boys may attend more than one period.

Cost—The fee for each period is $10, which covers all costs. Allow your boy not more than 10 cents a day for candy. Two dollars much accompany each application, which must be forfeited in event of failure to attend camp, illness excepted. The remaining $8 must be paid at the Y. M. C. A. before leaving for camp.

We can take care of only 50 boys during a camp period, so get your application in early.

No application accepted unless properly signed by parent or guardian.

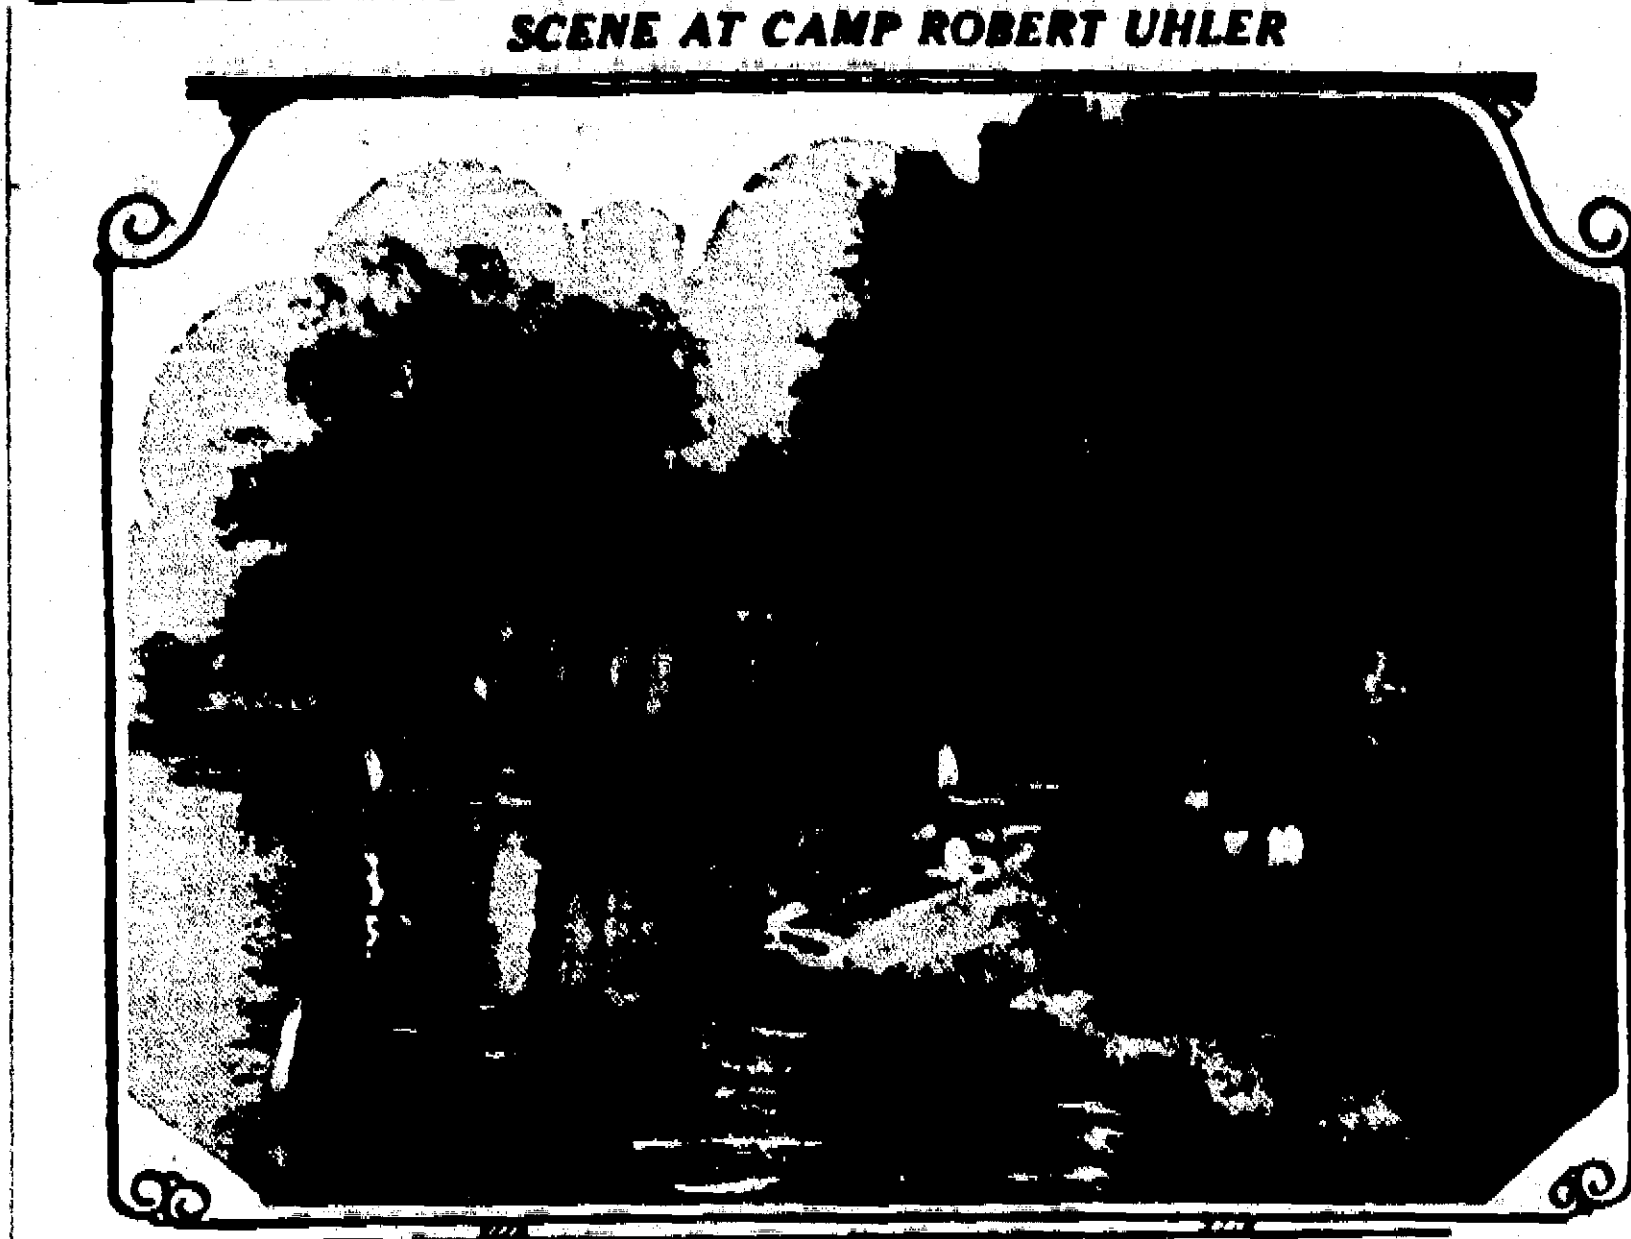

No distinction will be made between "Y" members and non-members. Any boy or girl is welcome.

Days for Visitors—Parents and friends are welcome on the regular visiting days, which are the first Wednesday, first Sunday, and the last Friday of each period. We cordially invite parents and all friends to visit us.

We observe Sunday in morning and evening service in our "Chapel."

Swimming—The swimming period comes twice a day and each boy with his buddy will have the time of their lives. Every beginner will receive instruction to make him a swimmer. Every good swimmer will be given lessons in life saving. The beginners' class has a separate period so that undivided attention can be given to the boys.

Stunt Night—The boys will have a part in building a fine open-air theater, where all stunts, plays, campfires and "winkie" roasts will be held.

Council Ring—All important events and ceremonies will be held in our council ring. All awards will be made before the council fire.

Games—During every period there are hunts, athletic meets, nature hikes, and games of all kinds will be held.

Night Games—Several interesting night games are in store for the boys and much fun will be had.

Aim of Camp Uhler—A boy's camp is no longer looked upon as a leaders' paradise. It is now regarded as an educational agency where, under the inspiration of the greatest of teachers, Nature, boys may learn the lessons of life and its relationship.

Awards—The camp letter is to Camp Robert Uhler what the diploma is to a school. It stands for a lot of hard work and play and any boy that wins it has learned something of value to him for his whole life. He must be proficient in aquatic, athletics, nature study and woodcraft, as well as perform other duties to the best of his ability. Each boy gets a service stripe for each period attended.

Medical Inspection—Each boy will be given a thorough health examination upon arrival at camp by our camp physicians. This will serve as a guide in giving special attention to those who need it. The camp will be kept scrupulously clean and sanitary at all times.

Program—A well-rounded program of sports, study, rest periods, nature and woodcraft study, devotional, campfire, stunts and other activities will be put in operation the first day. In fact, the boy upon his return from camp should be a healthier boy, a better student, and a more useful citizen.

A camp period has worked wonders in some boys.

Movie—Movies will be taken of the boys at work and play during every period. This history will be made that in later years will prove a joy and a wonderful recollection to the boys taking part.

Camp Store—A camp store will be in operation every day, where boys may satisfy their sweet tooth. No more than 10 cents' worth of candy is sold to a boy a day.

Camp Grounds—Several new tents are added this year. Every tent has a wooden floor. The tents will be located in the most favorable spots of the camp grounds. Our camping site has been pronounced by experts as one of the finest in the state. It contains an excellent athletic field, baseball diamond and a quarter-mile roller track.

Camp Staff—F. O. Rudolph has personal direction of the camp. The camp committee has secured one of the best associate camp directors in the person of Ward Ewalt. He comes to us highly recommended, having had 10 years of camp experience.

The tent leaders were selected only after careful investigation as to their character and experience. We're sure that each tent will claim to have the best tent leader.

Swimming Pool—A fenced-in area has been set aside for both the beginners and advanced swimmers. The lake was drained last summer for the purpose of eliminating the sea weed and to purify the water. Two artesian wells have been pouring clear water into the lake for several months and the campers will surely enjoy clean and sanitary swimming this summer.

Library—Books and magazines that boys enjoy will be available during rest periods and rainy days.

A Typical Day at Camp
Morning: 7:00, reveille; 7:05, setting up; 7:15, dip; 7:30, breakfast; 8:00, details; 8:30, woodcraft, handicraft, nature study; 10:00, swimming, advanced and life saving; 11:30, dinner; rest period.

JUNE BRIDES

OPEN season for June brides and brides will soon be in our midst. The rare days and the roses, we'll all get a kick out of, but it's the June brides that the dear ladies find the most interesting, whether she is the best girl friend or someone they wouldn't know from an abandoned child. Of course more than one bride will be in the paper and the bride will be the sport of the section of the paper and boldly state that weddings are all alike, for they all include the minister, a flock of customers, both the ones that come presents and the ones that just horned in on the party. But that isn't true by any means. Ask any one that has been through a campaign or two. You can go to two or even three in the same day and they're all different. Every young girl has her own idea of what life on the matrimonial barge should be, the ones who are launched but find the anchor slipping takes this time to paint a mental picture of how things would be if they might after this sorry scheme of affairs, and then the ones who are landed for parking their shoes on the shelf take time to figure out how they would engineer affairs should fate change her mind. And of course the gowns, frocks or dresses, whatever you may choose to call them, "My dear, the bridesmaids were perfectly gorgeous and the bride wore" and the next time you look at your watch, it's way past lunch time.

TAKING CHANCES

I wish some enterprising soul would organize a society whose members would be flung into durance vile should they so much as loose their purse strings to the purveyor of tickets of chance. I'd like to be a charter member. It isn't so much the luck that you spend on the proposition, for the amount is painfully small. What makes it so painful is the fact that on each occasion your bargaining temperature begins to ascend and you feel that this is the one time that luck is going to be with you, and you're going to get something which will at last compensate your feelings for all the other disappointments that have gone into a lost cause, so far as you are personally concerned. The real game comes when some one else walks off with the bacon, and you feel particularly injured if the lucky guy happens to be a habitual winner. I think this is an excellent opening for some enterprising soul to get busy and invent or concoct some potion or pill that would cure addicts of the chance mania.

A FRIEND IN NEED

Members of the City Union of King's Daughters are sponsoring another of their worthy causes, this time it is raising funds to pay off the debt in the purchase of a home for Harry Hill, Leavet, the blind brown-man. The story of the family brought to the Hill home this week a man of 80 years, whose mission was to leave with them a dollar, his contribution to the home fund. It wasn't an easy matter for the aged man to carry out his plan, for it meant an afternoon's job to walk the distance from his home to Leavet, a faint some of us I am afraid would shun, or at least put off until a friend could find time to lend the use of his conveyance and chauffeur.

The Understanding Heart

A Story of the California Forests

BY PETER B. KYNE

(Copyright, 1928, Peter B. Kyne by arrangement with King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHAPTER 59
GARLAND returned to the San Dimas, although he did not compromise the lone house by visiting her there. He was with the alternative of being immediately. The house of his situation out of his mind.

He thought that here, in this quiet little community, he was to find the atmosphere of a day that had been long and not too filled with happiness. District attorney, eh? Well, no not that. Membership in the state legislature would suit him better—governor—congressman—why not United States Senator—in time? He liked public office.

True, if he exposed such a career he must put from him all the thought of fortune, but—well, his wants were simple and few. He had fought the world and had not found it so kindly, and in the peaceful places he had found rest and comfort. He turned to Butler and threw his right arm over his great shoulders.

"Zee, you're one of the best. Thank you with all my heart. I'm going to drop anchor in Siskiyou."

"Wise man! The big fog in the little puddle has it all over the little fog in the big puddle, Tony."

"Better to be a lord in some poor valley than be an emperor and rule in Rome, Zee. Please run down and get those redoubts before your unfortunate friends change their minds."

A few days before the date set for his sentence for perjury at the county seat, Henry Jethroe, noted up from San Francisco to Dogwood Flats. It had been his custom to visit the Hercules operations once a month. He had a furnished lounge at the Hercules headquarters for his exclusive use, and after bathing and shaving here he strolled over to the company's office in the rear of the general store, McNaughton, Tholom's successor, met him and for an hour they discussed the company's operations.

"My dear Mr. Jethroe," the superintendent announced, "that fellow Mason has gone back to live at his ranch in Honey Valley. He's been in here a couple of times to purchase supplies and each time he has inquired as to the approximate date we expected you to arrive in Dogwood Flats. He said he had a business matter to discuss with me."

"He has. He has no business matter to discuss with me."

McNaughton was a reasonably astute man. "I thought he should have said he had a personal matter to discuss with you, Mr. Jethroe. I wouldn't be surprised if Mason feels he has some unfinished business to take up with you—in a personal way."

"I don't want to see the fellow. He's dangerous. If he comes around here asking for me, don't you tell him I'm here. Understand?"

"Are you afraid he may take a shot at you, Mr. Jethroe?"

"I'm afraid he'll do anything."

McNaughton reflected that Jethroe would soon be safe enough from the mountain man's vengeance, if, indeed, the latter planned it. However, it did not seem necessary to remind his superior of this, since the same thought was probably never very far from Jethroe's own disturbed mind.

Obviously, Jethroe was still his old, debonair self, still dwelling in the aura of post-fellowship and cordiality which, like a snake skin, he always emanated. He comforted himself as if a conviction on a charge of perjury were but one of the many petty annoyances to which a gentleman must be prepared to submit graciously.

Doubtless the belief in his own infallibility, born of his tremendous ego, which had inspired in him an idea that he was to receive a suspended sentence and release on probation, accounted for this outward calm. Inwardly, however, he was quaking, a cold fear clutched at his heart, he felt slightly nauseated and he had lost considerable weight due to nervous indigestion, the result of apprehension and worry.

The sickle gleam of his gray eyes, the dark pouches under those eyes, the nervous quivering of his chin which he sought to control by frequently licking his lower lip with the upper, all conspired to inform McNaughton that Jethroe had reached the breaking point. One fierce, strong blow dealt him now and he would grovel.

The new superintendent, looking up the road to Honey Valley, saw that blow coming in the person of Bob Mason, jealously approaching on horseback.

There is a latent instinct for drama in every human being. Although McNaughton scarcely knew Jethroe, he had heard all about him—read all about him, in fact, and the information did not sit well on his stomach.

Knowing the man for what he was, McNaughton, nevertheless, could not help feeling a vague pity for Jethroe's beaten state—the pity one feels for a mad dog made harmless at last by a policeman's bullet.

However, the vagrant pity did not blind McNaughton to the fact that Jethroe's condition was but a passing one in the fulness of time his debt would be paid to the state, but never to Bob Mason; and McNaughton had a sudden savage yearning to see Bob Mason collect something on account.

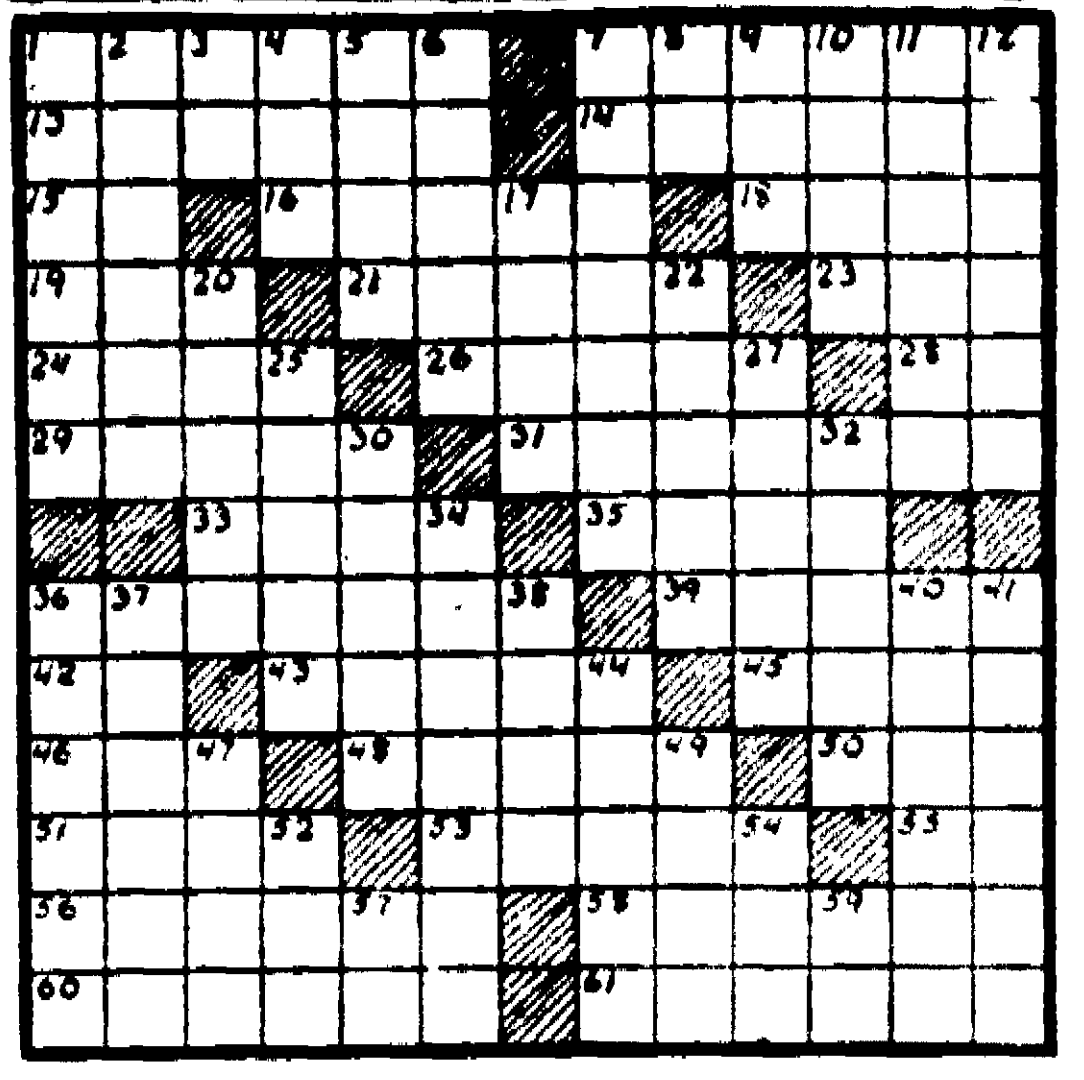

There was a drama to be enacted here—and McNaughton had a perfectly human relish for that sort of drama.

He turned and glanced at Jethroe. The latter's head was bowed, as if in deep thought, as he entered the general store, bound for the company's office in the rear. McNaughton did not know the man had seen Bob Mason approaching, if so, he had not recognized him at that distance.

"I'll not stand for a killing," the superintendent decided. "But if the poor devil, Mason, comes to tell Jethroe what he thinks of him, or even give him a terrible thrashing, who am I to interfere with his justifiable pleasures?"

Love's Awakening

The Heart Story of a Woman's Lasting Affections

BY AMIE GARRISON

"I'll needs me?" Harry Jethroe repeated my words twice slowly, and I laughed at the utter bewilderment in his face. "Mostly as a wonderful thing, and I'm glad you are developing it," I said demurely. "But, it's utterly wasted at this moment. Let me assure you that Lillian needs you now as she never has needed anyone in her life."

He leaned forward in his chair, his face grave, intent.

"Tell me," he said.

"In the first place, she is not nearly as strong, physically, as she used to be. She never has saved anything until very lately, and I think she is naturally afraid of a breakdown. The little which Marion inherited from her father wouldn't be sufficient to send her through college. Marion's ambition and her mother's."

"That, at least, can be my job," Harry answered slowly. "I'm not a rich man, Abraham knows, but I've got a few little things in the flames here and there, and I'm a husky crier. I can save enough to relieve all of worry on that score. What's next?"

"The other is a far more urgent need," I said slowly, "and one more difficult for anyone to satisfy. It is a matter of Lillian's own morbid conscience. For years she has feared that because of Marion she sacrificed you. Now she fears that your coming back may estrange Marion."

"I know it," Mr. Underwood sprang from his chair, towering over me. "That's just what I was talking about. I know I ought to clear out."

"Will you sit down and listen to me, as you promised?" I said calmly. "Can't you see that disappointment as Marion's spirit toward you is the thing which is hurting her? That you cannot help by going away. You will only add to her burden by doing that. Always she will brood over the fact that Marion was the one to send you away again. The way you can help her is by staying and winning Marion's love and confidence. When you two are really friends, Lillian will be at peace for the first time in many years."

"That's a large order," he said rebelliously. "Not for me. I'm genuinely fond of the kid, but I'm anxious to her."

"There's a wonderful chance to exercise your well-known powers of fascination," I told him. "But there's a third fact of this thing I want you to look at, and I think the chief reason why Lillian needs you. She and Marion have lived only for each other all these years. The way you can help her is by staying and winning Marion's love and confidence. When you two are really friends, Lillian will be at peace for the first time in many years."

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDG M. LEWIS

A BOY that didn't like to go to bed early ought to be careful what he laughs at. When I get big I am going to let my boys laugh at the grown ups all they want to, because only a boy knows how funny they are.

I took some corn upstairs with me last night, and before I pulled Jubilee up I opened the door from the attic to the kitchen roof a crack and put some corn in the attic. This morning when I woke up I thought I saw the bed post moving and I looked and looked, because it wasn't very light yet, and then I saw a big squirrel sitting up on the bed post with a kernel of corn in his paws, nibbling on it and looking at me. When I saw what it was I bounced out of bed and looked through the attic and pulled the little door shut, and looked it, and then I knew I had Mr. Squirrel, and I took my time coming back. Jubilee was standing in the middle of the bed, and I didn't see the squirrel anywhere, and was wondering if Jubilee had let him, and I was looking around for him, and when I stuck my head out in the hall I remembered that I had left the window open when I pulled Jubilee up last night, and when I looked out of it there was the squirrel up on top of Father's house sitting straight up on the hind end of himself looking at me. I bet I didn't look like so very much. A fellow that a lot of no more brains than a squirrel has got the wrong shaped head.

I let Jubilee down and went down and got the pail and fixed the fire and went out and milked the dummed brutes. Gosh and if I would make a hole in the middle of the top of the head box the squirrel would go in it and wouldn't be able to get out again because there wouldn't be anything to climb up to the hole on so that's got a key hole saw and we did it. When I had cleared out the barn, we didn't go swimming, because the girls were along, but we went over to play ball. When we had played ball a while then and he had thought up a new kind of hole and ask all of the girls would find and then look for all of the boys. Then all the boys would find and then look for all the girls. So the girls climbed behind Mrs. Parmer's kitchen, and then we boys went swimming out to the back of the poor house and had a good time for quite a while. Then I was out on a limb of the old warehouse over the river, and I heard Father's voice holler, "Hill boy, Thomas Aristotle!" and I didn't have on as many clothes as a peeled apple, and I went into the river on my face, and when I came out everyone was laughing. It was the last flag of Trap convulsing Frolic. I chased him as far as I dared without my clothes.
